a biography of the life and works of sir john everett millais born 8 june 1829 at southampton england the son of john william millais and mary evamey he married in 1855 euphemia chalmers daughter of george gray john died 13 aug 1896 south africa is awash with policy failures and policy confusion we argue firstly that our current discord over policy details has its origin in the celebrated negotiated transition we hold that the vote count of an 85 majority in the constituent assembly in 1996 obscured the reality that the constitution meant different things to different negotiators the result was that south africa from the very start of the democratic era lacked a national consensus on how to go about consolidating democracy we keep on failing to build a proper roof over our democracy because the constitutional foundations are weak a remarkable book about a remarkable time partner to history reveals the role played by u s diplomacy in south africa s surprisingly successful transition from apartheid to democracy lyman the u s ambassador during the transition makes clear that america didn t own the transition process the south africans did but u s involvement was active and intense and it made a difference lyman tells an enthralling story of how washington policymakers and the american embassy used u s influence economic assistance and political support to help end apartheid without sparking civil war the book offers candid assessments both of u s policy deliberations and of the leading players in the unfolding unpredictable drama it takes us behind the diplomatic scenes as well as onto the public stage as american diplomats strove to facilitate dialogue encourage reconciliation and dissuade potential spoilers a spirited defense of the enlightenment against assaults from both the left and the right that explains its urgent implications for our contemporary politics ours is an age when optimism about politics is hard to come by ian shapiro explains why this is so and without minimizing the daunting challenges spells out an appropriate response written in the indomitable spirit exemplified by tom paine uncommon sense is a rich source of insight and inspiration in dark political times the enlightenment commitments to reason and science are under assault from the postmodern left and the authoritarian right shapiro explains why the attacks are misguided and politically destructive he agrees with the critics that there are no universal principles of justice that transcend political battles and no fair impartial rules to govern the distribution of income wealth rights or opportunities but abandoning the search for them as futile does not mean junking the enlightenment s core political goal to deploy the tools of reason and science to fight domination democracy is essential to vindicating that goal yet citizens in many democracies are profoundly alienated and many democracies are in danger of failing shapiro explains what has gone wrong debunks ill considered remedies and spells out better ones deepening and extending his previous writing on political theory and democratic politics this book seeks to elucidate the decisions of states that have chosen to acquire nuclear arms or inherited nuclear arsenals and have either disarmed or elected to retain their warheads it examines nuclear arms policy via an interconnected framework involving the eclectic use of national security based realism economic interdependence liberalism and nuclear weapons norms or morality based constructivism through the various chapters examining the nuclear munitions decisions of south africa ukraine and north korea a case is built that a state s leadership decides whether to keep or give up the bomb based on interlinked security economic and norms governed motivations thereafter frameworks evaluating the likelihood of nuclear proliferation and accessing the feasibility of disarmament are then applied to north korea and used to examine recent iranian nuclear negotiability this book is an invaluable resource for international relations and security studies scholars wmd analysts and post graduate or undergraduate candidates focusing on nuclear arms politics related courses there are many interesting hotels scattered about the world with a few of which i am acquainted and with a great many of which i am not of course all hotels are interesting from one point of view or another in fact the surest way to fix an audience s attention is to introduce your hero or to display your opening chorus in the lobby or along the façade of a hotel the life the movement and colour the drifting individualities the pretence the bluff the self consciousness the independence the ennui the darting or lounging servants the very fact that of those before your eyes seven out of ten are drawn from distant and scattered places are sufficient in themselves to invest the smallest hostelry with glamour it is not of this general interest that i would now speak nor is it my intention at present to glance at the hotels wherein quaintness is specialized whether intentionally or no there are thousands of them and all of them well worth the discriminating traveller s attention concerning some of them as the old inns at dives sur mer and at mont st michel whole books have been written these depend for their charm on a mingled gift of the unusual and the picturesque there are as i have said thousands of them and of their cataloguing should one embark on so wide a sea there could be no end and again i must for convenience exclude the altogether charming places like the tour d argent of paris simpson s of the strand and a dozen others that will spring to every traveller s memory where the personality of the host or of a chef or even a waiter is at once a magnet for the attraction of visitors and a reward for their coming these too are many in the interest to which i would draw attention the hotel as a building or as an institution has little part it is indeed a façade a mise en scène before which play the actors that attract our attention and applause the set may be as modernly elaborate as peacock alley of the waldorf or the templed lobby of the st francis or it may present the severe and elizabethan simplicity of the stone paved veranda of the norfolk at nairobi the matter is quite inessential to the spectator his appreciation is only slightly and indirectly influenced by these things sunk in his arm chair of velvet or of canvas he puffs hard and silently at his cigar watching and listening as the pageant and the conversation eddy by of such hotels i number that gaudy and polysyllabic hostelry the grand hôtel du louvre et de la paix at marseilles i am indifferent to the facts that it is situated on that fine thoroughfare the rue de cannebière which the proud and untravelled native devoutly believes to be the finest street in the world that it possesses a dining room of gilded and painted repoussé work so elaborate and wonderful that it surely must be intended to represent a tinsmith s dream of heaven that its concierge is the most impressive human being on earth except ludwig von kampf whom i have never seen that its
